The background is a dark, textured surface, possibly black or dark grey, decorated with various autumn-themed elements. There are several leaves in shades of green, yellow, and orange scattered across the top and sides. In the bottom corners, there are sprigs of small, round berries in yellow and orange. Small, glowing yellow and pink dots are also scattered throughout the background, creating a festive, bokeh-like effect.

Wood Cut Leaves

First, saturate a paper with watercolor paint. You'll want to have plenty of water! Let the colors mix into one another.

While still wet, press the wood cut leaf onto your watercolor paper. The paint will transfer onto your wood cut leaf.
